

Group Analysis North presents:
Barbara Dick Annual Lecture
on Saturday 27th February 2010
10.00 a.m. — 3.00 p.m.

Love and Power— A Group Analytic Perspective

“There seems to be a battle between the two forces of power and love that is the very battle for life itself.”

Sue Einhorn will address the forces of Love and Power in our lives and look at how the social nature of power is interweaved with the psychological. Power relations are socially based and the relationship between women and men is mediated by the way in which our society or culture creates within us an understanding of how to be a woman or a man.

These forces of Love and Power can be explored more vividly by using great literature to illustrate our psychoanalytic and group analytic experiences. ‘King Lear’ is an epic about a man more used to taking than giving, and a man who had great power but who confused his role with his person. Sue Einhorn will look at the famous opening scene in ‘King Lear’ to describe the different qualities of love and discuss how the corruption of these forces can drift into domination and submission.

Sue Einhorn is a Training Group Analyst, supervisor and teacher at the IGA in London. She convenes and conducts a Diploma Training in Group Analysis for clinicians in St. Petersburg, Russia and is a supervisor for groups at the Medical Foundation for Victims of Torture.

For members of Group Analysis North, the day will continue with a Large Group from 3.30 p.m. followed by the Annual General Meeting at 5.30 p.m.
